1. Qualitative Information on Quarterly Results

(1) Qualitative Information on Consolidated Results

In the first nine-month period of the current fiscal year (April 1, 2011 to December 31, 2011), the Japanese economy was recovering slowly until the summer. However, the outlook became gloomier because of the sovereign debt crisis in Europe, a global economic slowdown, including the deceleration of growth in emerging countries including China, slumping exports from Japan due to the unprecedented appreciation of the yen against major currencies, and the shift in industrial operations from Japan to overseas. In such an environment, the Unitika Group reported net sales of 129,504 million yen (down 2.3% year-on-year), operating income of 7,251 million yen (down 0.2% year-on-year), ordinary income of 3,898 million yen (up 0.0% year-on-year), and net income of 2,292 million yen (up 0.6% year-on-year). Net sales decreased because the Group transferred the Environmental Division. Operating, ordinary and net income remained almost unchanged from the previous year because of a decline in demand for electrical and electronic applications after summer 2011.

Here is an overview of the business results by segment.

[Polymers]

In the films segment, cumulative sales increased in the packaging field despite a sudden inventory adjustment since the fall. Meanwhile, sales in the industrial field decreased because of weaker demand for electrical and electronic applications. Earnings in the films segment as a whole grew due to an increase in shipments until the second quarter of the current fiscal year. In the resins segment, earnings decreased due to sluggish demand for lucrative electric and electronics applications and office equipment applications, while shipments for automobile applications fluctuated. In the non-woven fabric segment, shipments of polyester spunbond for sanitary material and roofing applications were solid, but those for carpet applications, one of the main uses, were weak. Shipments of cotton spunlace for wet sheet applications were steady due to strong demand during summer.

[Advanced Materials]

In the glass fibers segment, shipments for building and civil engineering refurbishment applications remained steady. In the IC cloth segment, the division continued struggling to remain profitable amid a lingering semiconductor market slump, though profitability gradually recovered because some demand shifted to high value added products. In the glass beads segment, sales remained sluggish because the recovery in demand for industrial applications was delayed until the winter. In the activated carbon fibers segment, shipments for water purifiers, including those built into faucets, and professional-use mask applications increased strongly.

[Fibers and Textiles]

In the industrial material segment, shipments of ultra-high-strength polyester filament yarn for construction and civil engineering applications continued to be strong. The division had difficulty expanding sales of short-fiber polyester due to price competition with foreign-made products as a result of the strong yen. In the vinylon fibers segment, the division failed to improve profitability, because demand from reinforced concrete applications declined due to the deterioration of the European economy and the effects of price competition with overseas products caused by the rising yen. In the garments, lifestyle materials and bedding segment, shipments of uniforms maintained momentum. In addition, sales of differentiated threads and functional materials in the field of sportswear and women's clothing grew steadily, contributing to an improvement in profitability.

[Others]

In the health & amenity segment, sales of health food and feeding stuff increased solidly, but sales of functional dietary materials were sluggish due to weak domestic demand. In the medical segment, sales of catheters for the treatment of circulatory system diseases grew in the medical product field, while sales of enzymes and clinical diagnostic reagents were strong in the biochemical field. In addition, the real estate segment remained solid, because of the completion of a new development project.

- (2) Qualitative information on financial positions
 - Total assets increased by 7,682 million yen from the end of the previous fiscal year to 276,422 million yen, mainly due to an increase in notes and accounts receivable-trade, inventories and property, plant and equipment. Liabilities grew by 869 million yen from the end of the previous fiscal year to 243,632 million yen, mainly because of an increase in provisions despite a decrease in loans payable. Net assets increased by 6,812 million yen from the end of the previous fiscal year to 32,790 million yen, mainly due to an increase in both capital stock and capital surplus by the exercise of subscription rights to shares and retained earnings.
- (3) Qualitative information on the forecast of consolidated results The Group did not revise its full-year forecast of consolidated results announced on May 10, 2011.
